

Family perspectives of student outcomes in the Latch-On program in Ireland

Motivation

Anything to do with Latch-On and it is his business....The benefits are written all over him. He will try things and is very good at doing bits and pieces for himself and that he didn't do before.

Communication

I noticed a difference when the lads were home from college at Christmas. He was talking to them about Latch-On a lot. Very proud of it. He knew about what was going on....the news and that. Not only the sports but the news stories too.

Independence

Travelling back and forth with that sense of purpose about him has done the world of good to him. Much more independent in himself.

Identity

She has a new sense of purpose, almost a new identity....one she is proud of!

Literacy

If someone told me on the day she was born that we would be talking about poets and unpublished work; it would have made a difference ...

Lifelong Learning

He is alive for the first time in years. Similar story here, I was told I had to accept he had come as far as he was going to come but I tell you he is well able and doing very, very well haven't seen this love of learning in.
